Glasgow - Host City

Glasgow's recent sporting journey has been nothing short of remarkable. Fresh from delivering the best-ever Commonwealth Games in 2014, 2015 World Gymnastics Championships and the 2017 Total BWF Badminton World Championships, we are currently one of the world's top five sporting cities.

Glasgow's success is built on our international events programme, our continued investment in world-class facilities such as the Emirates Arena and our commitment to increasing participation and securing a lasting legacy for future generations. Close to £200m has been spent on new and improved venues since 2009, as part of a citywide £1bn investment in infrastructure.

These venues have been home to some of the world's biggest and best sporting events over the years. And there is more to come including the Glasgow 2018 European Championships, which we are all looking forward to. Also on the horizon are the 2019 European Athletics Indoor Championships and 2019 European Short Course Swimming Championships.

But it is about much more than elite competition. At the same time as hosting world-class events the number of people in our city taking part in sport is now at an all-time high. The sport sector also supports around 10,000 jobs in the city and contributes approximately £370 million to Glasgow's thriving economy.

Glasgow really is a sporting city like no other.

Councillor Susan Aitken

Leader of Glasgow City Council

Welcome to Scotland

Scotland's sporting reputation has never been higher thanks in part to playing host to what is regarded as the best ever Commonwealth Games and a spectacular Ryder Cup in 2014.

Glasgow 2014 reinforced Scotland's status as one of the world's leading major events destinations. But far from being just about sport, the Games were an essential element of a wider strategic goal to boost Scotland's key tourism and events industries.

We used the Games as a catalyst to secure further major events for Scotland, both in the lead up to and beyond 2014, with a view to boosting the local and national economy and cementing Scotland's international profile as a world-class destination for business, events and tourism.

Since the Commonwealth Games, a further 37 major events have been secured or delivered in Scotland, with an estimated economic impact of over £14m, showing just how important sport is to our economy.

But it is not just sport that Scotland is famous for. We are renowned for our warm welcome and beautiful scenery, with Lonely Planet recently naming Scotland as one of the top three countries to visit.

High praise indeed and a reflection of what makes Scotland so special.

Tollcross International Swimming Centre

Tollcross International Swimming Centre (TIS) is a world-class aquatics venue located in the East End of Glasgow. The centre has a track-record of hosting major swimming events, including the 2014 Commonwealth Games and the IPC World Para Swimming Championships in 2015.

It boasts a 50m competition pool with 10 lanes, a 50m training pool with 6 lanes, over 900m² of team space and a seating capacity in excess of 4500.

Royal Commonwealth Pool

Nestled below Edinburgh's famous landmark Arthur's Seat, the Royal Commonwealth Pool (RCP) has staged many major diving and aquatic events since it was first opened back in 1970. It has hosted two Commonwealth Games and a FINA Diving World Series and was most recently the host for this year's British Diving Championships.

Divers at Glasgow 2018 will compete in a diving pool with 1m and 3m springboards and 3m, 5m, 7.5m and 10m platforms. They'll also have access to a fully equipped diving dryland with video review technology.

However, Glasgow 2018 will be the first time Scotstoun has hosted an international synchronised swimming competition.

Teams will compete in a purpose built, temporary competition arena. A 20m x 25m x 3m competition pool will be surrounded on three sides by seating stands, creating an intimate amphitheatre.

Athletes will use an existing 10 lane, 25m pool for training, warm up and swim down.
